Offerings Next Week at the Capital Playhouses

A ship's boom has never possessed any particularly romantic appeal, but here comes Arthur Hammerstein, producer, to the inseparable Friml-Harbach, and, lo and behold! they place a winsome, dainty girl, clad in exquisitely charming pajamas, on the end of the boom, swing it out over the heads of the audience, fascinate the feminine hearts of their hearers into the belief that "You're in Love" is the most endearing, joyous, and sparkling of all their many melodious musical comedy offerings.

"You're in Love" will be the attraction at the Belasco Theater for next week, and the ladies are in line for the front seats; first, because of the sweetly sung love song that will be rendered as the boom slowly swings from left to right over the orchestra pit, and second, because it gives them an opportunity to sashay the cute little boudoir slippers from the feet of the prima donna as she passes over their heads.

NATIONAL

As its attraction for next week, starting Monday evening, the National Theater announces a new play from the pen of Sidney Rosenfeld, entitled "Under Pressure," produced by Klaw & Erlanger and staged by Edgar McGregor. In this new play the old story of the pursuit of the eternal feminine by the eternal masculine is told in a novel and dramatic manner, that keeps interest at a high pitch through four stirring acts.

Briefly, the story is told of Bruce Markham, who seeks to win Ernestine Waite by stormy wooing. The play takes its name from the pressure continuously brought to bear on the heroine, and will be interpreted by an excellent cast. Fred Niblo will play the part of Bruce, Miss Violet Hemming that of the heroine, and Miss Hilda Spang that of the third principal role. Mrs. Jepson, an exhilarating widow.

R. F. KEITH'S

Nora Bayes will be the dazzling attraction at R. F. Keith's Theater next week. Assisted by Irving Fisher in songs, and Harry Akst at the piano, Miss Bayes will offer new songs, patriotic ballads, and new gowns. The third and last episode of "The Retreat of the Germans at the Battle of Arras" will be given.

The third stellar feature will be Cleveland Bronner and company in "Dream Fantasies." Mrs. Violet Benson and company will present "The High Cost of Living," and the bill includes Billy Gould, a favorite entertainer.

Mullen and Coogan in "Odd Nonsense." Brier and King in "A Frolic for Two," the Flemings in athletic posturing, and the pipe organ recitals.

Next Sunday at 3 and 5:15 p. m. the program will include all the features in the current offering.

POLY'S

The "Katsenjammer Kids" will play their first engagement in Washington at Poly's Theater next week.

A cartoon musical comedy that is a distinct departure from previous cartoon plays, combining all the elements that go to make up a successful musical comedy, including spectacular scenic effects, novel electrical effects, a fashion parade of real chorus beauties, catchy music, fantastic dancing, and any quantity of hilarious fun, with the entire Katsenjammer family, the latest of the comic supplement characters to find their ways to the stage.

The Katsenjammer Kids, Hans and Fritz, Ma Katsenjammer, Der Captain, Der Professor, and all the other characters appear in the show. The advance sale opens tomorrow. David M. Wolf wrote the book and lyrics, Donald H. Bestor the music and it was staged by Virgil M. Bennett, a master of stagecraft.

GAYETY

The Gayety Theater next week will have an unusual offering, when James E. Cooper's popular attraction, "The Roseland Girls," come there for a week's engagement. The company will present two laugh riots entitled, "Putting It Over" and "The Whirl of the Golden West." Notable among the features is the finale of the first act, which is called "The Pirates' Midnight Ball." An adequate cast is headed by Solly Ward, Harry Coleman, Esther Delaur, Elsie Bostel, Stella Wood, Evelyn Burnett, Don Trent, and Hunter, Chick and Hunter, "the harmony singers," besides an attractive chorus of twenty young women.

LOEW'S COLUMBIA

Beginning Sunday and continuing until Thursday, Billie Burke will be seen at Loew's Columbia in a picturization of the New York stage success of last season, "Arms and the Girl." It is a delightful story of romance, adventure, and a triumph of an American girl in war-bound Belgium. A Sidney Drew comedy, a Bray pictograph, and the Hearst Pathe News will also be shown. Thursday and for the last half of the week Fannie Ward in "On the Level," a gripping story of pioneer days when cattle rustling was at its height, will be the feature photoplay.

GARDEN

Antonio Moreno, the popular screen actor, will be the principal attraction at Moore's Garden Theater on Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday of next week in a new kind of film play entitled, "The Angel Factory." It is the story of a rich young man who takes up settlement work and becomes the close friend of a remarkable girl of the poor. The play has many thrilling scenes and there is strong heart interest throughout. On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the program will be led by the celebrated Japanese actor, Sessue Hayakawa in his most recent film success, "The Call of the East." On Saturday the smiling Western hero, Jack Gardner, will be pictured in a thrilling screen drama which bears the title of "Men of the Desert." Usual comedy, news and educational films and good music complete the program.

STRAND

An American's sacrifice of life and all it has dear to save his countrymen and learn the secrets of the German spy system forms the theme of the stirring screen production, "The Spy," which, with Dustin Farnum in its lead, will be shown at Moore's Strand Theater for a full week beginning next Sunday. Farnum, one of the few popular men of the screen, plays the role of Mark Quantance, a man of wealth, who undertakes the hazardous task of obtaining a list of the Teutonic spies in the United States. The drama contains all the vigor and excitement of war, without a single battle scene flashed on the screen. The program will be supplemented by usual comedy, news and educational films, and selections by the Strand Symphony Orchestra.

CASINO

"Enlighten Thy Daughter," the notable screen morality drama comes to the Casino today. In the story, two families of distinctly different temperaments, different views on life, yet with singleness of purpose, are the keystones to the tremendous dramatic moments.

The cast consists of Frank Sheridan, Zena Keefe, James Morrison, Katharine Kaelred, Marie Shotwell, Arthur Donaldson, Violet Morner, and Rubye De Remer.

ARCADE

Tonight will be "Carnival" night at the Arcade Dance Hall, Fourteenth and Park road. The "Little Palace" will have an augmented orchestra, which will make dancing "De Luxe." Joy makers of every description will be distributed among the guests of the evening and "spook" dances are to be given by experts dancers in disguise. The usual free dancing until 9 p. m. will prevail.

Next Saturday night the regular week-end dance will be given, when, if it can be arranged, exhibition dances will be given. Small prizes will be given to the successful winners.

CENTRAL COLISEUM

Dancing at the Central Coliseum has never been more popular than it is this fall. The dance floor has been entirely renovated, and the hall itself has been repainted and beautifully decorated.

There is ample space for those not desiring to dance to be accommodated with comfortable seats. The Central Coliseum Orchestra has become quite a feature. Every evening many people visit the Coliseum, especially to hear the unusually attractive dance program.

FATHER OF CLOSED SHOP' KILLED BY RUNAWAY HORSE

GLOBE, Ariz., Oct. 10.—Judge John McBride, sixty-one years old, is dead here from injuries sustained when he was struck by a runaway horse. He was here as a Federal mediator and was one of the best known labor leaders in the country.

He is the only man who defeated Samuel Gompers for the presidency of the American Federation of Labor.

His greatest single achievement for organized labor was the foundation of the first closed shop, for which he is generally known as the "father of the closed shop."

During his term as president of the United Mine Workers of America, that organization had its largest membership.

Born in Ohio, McBride took an active interest in the cause of the workingman, and at one time was sent by that element to the Ohio legislature. He was named by Governor Campbell as Ohio's first State labor commissioner.

RAIDER SEEDLER SANK $40,000,000 OF SHIPPING

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Shipping valued at $40,000,000 was sunk by the German raider Seedler before the vessel entered Pacific waters, according to a special dispatch from Sydney.

D. C. EPISCOPALIANS GIVE $117,592 FOR PENSIONS

That the District of Columbia over-subscribed its quota for the Episcopal clergymen's pension fund by more than 17 per cent in the two years' campaign for this purpose just ended was announced by Bishop Harding this morning.

Corcoran Thom, vice president of the American Security and Trust Company, was in charge of raising the District's share, and while the goal set was $100,000, Mr. Thom has announced that $117,592 was pledged and has been actually paid in.

The actual raising of the fund was carried on by committees from each parish in the diocese of Washington. In the national campaign, for which J. P. Morgan, of New York, is treasurer, $8,712,879.17 was raised.

Owen
Johnson wrote this novel in an old chateau

TUCKED away in the Department of Haute-Savoie in France is an old fifteenth-century chateau where Owen Johnson wrote "Virtuous Wives" for Cosmopolitan.

The man who gave the world a name for the play-with-fire type of girl has now given a name to the type of wife who seeks and enjoys a mode of living from which her husband and his interests are far removed.

Owen Johnson is not a preacher—he is a novelist, and into this novel he has woven the drama and the satire of modern American home life. Experience and temperament qualify him to know and to write of the difference between the pre-matrimonial training of the average French girl and the average American girl.

This great artist knows human beings—he senses the vast theme that underlies the story of our restless and profoundly unhappy people. And with his gift of observation and insight he pictures the trend of our ceaseless activity.

Depend upon it, "Virtuous Wives" are two words of which you will hear a great deal in the future.

You who enjoyed "Stover at Yale"; who loved "The Varmint" and who marveled at the insidious charm of "The Salamander"—you will surely read "Virtuous Wives." The name of Owen Johnson will send you to Cosmopolitan for his latest work. But you who have yet to know Owen Johnson—our advice is—lose no time in beginning his new novel in November Cosmopolitan.

"Virtuous Wives" is but one of the many big features in this, the greatest and best-balanced issue that Cosmopolitan has ever published—a foretaste of Cosmopolitan's sweeping plans for making "America's Greatest Magazine" even greater.
